OUT WEST.

FROM THE DOMINION ILLUSTRATED—APRIL 25TH.

Qu'Appelle! The Vale of Qu'Appelle! The words still sound charming to our ears, recalling pleasant memories of red men, half-breeds, beautiful lakes and north-west romance. Prosaic indeed must be the traveller who can sit in the lodges listening to the traditions of the natives without a pang of regret, and a longing to graze once more upon the boundless prairie covered with thousands of buffalo, dotted with buffalo-skin lodges, ornamented with pictures of various colours detailing the history of the martial heroes of the camp, and the large bands of antelope which roamed in innocence amid the primitive glory of the plains of Assiniboia. Alas! a great change has come in the interests of civilization, but the poet and artist cannot fail to drop a tear in silence for the faded glory of the native races, who, as they gaze upon the iron horse rushing past, cannot help "nursing their wrath to keep it warm."

It was a beautiful morning, in the month of September, that we left the railroad station of Qu'Appelle and northward spad toward the pretty village in the lovely Vale of Qu'Appelle. Two eventful hours quickly passed, and as we sat with head reclining, musing upon the stories we had heard of the spirits which flitted from stone to bush and lodge, we headed not the scattered settler's homes. A word from the driver, and there at our feet lay the pretty village. What a charming scene! Resting a few moments upon the hill, the eye wandered across the lovely valley, fully three miles wide, where the distant past lazily pursued its eastward course, the river Qu'Appelle. Eastward and westward, for twenty miles or more, stretched a line of lakes, connected by a small river which at this time was dry. Upon a narrow neck of land between two of the lakes were clustered the houses which comprised the village of Fort Qu'Appelle. Tiny craft were plying to and fro upon the lakes, the largest of which was six miles long and about three miles wide. Descending the hill we spent a few hours at the hope of a friend and then away we sped along the shore of one of the lakes eastward to feast our eyes and gather inspiration for succeeding days. Chatting freely and yet keeping an observant eye for the beauties of nature, the cup of our happiness seemed filled to the brim. Nestling under the banks of the valley at the edge of the lakes were many primitive looking log cabins belonging to the half-breeds, attracted by the fish in the lakes and the timber which covered the slopes of the valley. Small fishing craft were drawn up on the beach, and fishing nets were hanging up to dry beside the lonely dwellings. Lonely did we say?—there were many children scantily dressed running in childish glee, happy, indeed, in their poverty and filth.

Three miles from the fort stood an Indian Industrial School, presided over by the genial and cultured Father Hugounaco. The Dominion Government has erected extensive brick buildings as a place of residence for the children of the Indian reserves who can be induced to attend to receive an elementary English education and be taught a trade. The boys are taught under the supervision of the priests, and the girls have the care and instruction of the nuns. It was after school hours and smaller children were in sportive glee chasing each other around the playground, while out in the fields the elder scholars—boys and girls—were busily working, and a merry group they seemed to be.

Homeward we journeyed with images of the past rising before us, the river rushing adown the vale, and the smoking lodges encamped on its banks. It was in the days of yore, the natives say, that the Indian lover roamed the forest, and at eventide he heard a voice mention his name. It was a familiar voice, which oftentimes had touched his heart with joy, but now fear shook his frame as he called aloud in reply, "Qu'Appelle!" Twice did the spirit mention his name, and then with strange forebodings, he stepped into his canoe and allowed it to guide gently down the stream, musing meanwhile upon the purport of the message from the spirit land. At early sunrise he drew his canoe ashore and through the narrow fringe of trees which skirted the river he passed. Upon the gentle sloping prairie a number of lodges were pitched, and around one of them, which wore a familiar appearance, a small group of people were gathered in deep silence. His heart divined the purport of the message, and slowly approaching the company he inquired the cause of their sorrow. They told him, with tears, that as the sun was slowly sinking the previous day the spirit of his lovely bride had fled. With grief unspoken he lingered awhile and then sadly entered his canoe. Out into the great unknown wastes he wandered, gliding slowly with the waters, and mortal never saw again the faithful lover of the lodges.

The shades of night fell upon us, and as we cast a retrosting glance upon the lakes in the beautiful vale we thought we heard from out of the waters the voice of the Indian lover; and, as we listened, all we heard him say was "Qu'Appelle!"

DEATH OF A SENATOR

MR. HAYTHORNE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND PASSES AWAY.

OTTAWA, May 7.—Senator Haythorne, of Prince Edward Island, died this morning at 7 o'clock at the Grand Union Hotel. On Thursday last he complained that he felt unwell, and said that he would probably be the victim of an attack of grippe. That night, on returning to his hotel, he had a hot bath, on going into his bedroom he fell forward in a fainting fit upon the floor, where he lay unconscious for four hours. At the end of that time he recovered consciousness and was able to get to his bed. Dr. Wright was summoned in the morning, and found that congestion of the left lung had set in. He grew steadily worse, his illness developing into pneumonia. His recovery was not hoped for.

SUICIDE AT SWIFT CURRENT.

A Man Named Jamieson, After a Debauch, Ends His Existence.

SWIFT CURRENT, May 7.—A man named Jamieson, formerly a member of the mounted police, arrived here three days ago, looking for employment. He had been drinking heavily. This afternoon he was found dead in the C. P. R. Dining Hall coal shed, with a bottle marked "Chloral" and containing a small quantity of clear liquid and a substance resembling gum camphor beside the body. There was no evidence of foul play. It is supposed to be a case of suicide and an inquest will likely be held.—Free Press.

LONDON, May 6.—The trial of Capt. Verney, M. P. for North Buckinghamshire, charged with procuring a governess, Nellie Beckett, for immoral purposes, took place to-day. Capt. Verney pleaded not guilty of procuring the girl, but he pleaded guilty of conspiracy in conjunction with Mme Roulier, of Paris, to procure her. The recorder, Sir Thomas Chambens, accepted this plea and sentenced Capt. Verney to one years imprisonment without hard labor.

The Dominion Government have given a supplemental grant to the North West Government for school purposes. Grants due school districts for the quarter ending March 31st to be paid.

The Moose Jaw Times.

FRIDAY. MAY 15, 1891

The Canadian Pacific special train carrying the Empress of India around world passengers passed through Moose Jaw, having made the run from Vancouver to Winnipeg in 49 hours and 3½ hours for stops. The train dropped mail matter at Winnipeg 13 days from Yokohama Should connection be made at New York with the Cunard steamer and the usual time made on the Atlantic, the passengers will reach Liverpool within three weeks from Yokohama.

The Department of Agriculture has received a report from its vetinary inspector at Fort McLeod, N. W. T., in which it is stated that during the month reports of contagious diseases amongst horses reached him from Pincher Creek District, and that he went to the place and found some animals suffering from parasites, and not mange as reported. The inspector adds: "No disease of any kind exists to my knowledge in my district. Animals are looking in good health, and there is every promise of a large calf crop, the weather at present being all that could be desired for young stock."

CLAIMS ON THE FUTURE.

We are living under the shadow of the future, and already we are trying to predict the signs of the times when the crops shall be gathered and the children singing the harvest-home. Never in the history of this district have the prospects been so favorable. The spring has been somewhat late, but so soon as it opened we have been blest with good weather. In the beginning of the season the song of the farmer was "water, water everywhere" and his heart was made glad as he beheld in the future heavy crops and good prices for grain. Let us hope that the years of plenty, so much longed for, which have haunted the farmer in his midnight dreams have come at last. During the past month travellers have found it impossible to follow the trails owing to the abundance of water upon the prairie. Even at the present date there are temporary lakes upon the prairie, and the ponds are overflowing. The creeks in the district have not been so high for several years. Since the snow disappeared there have been pleasant showers of rain sufficient to give the seed a good start. No more excellent tonic can be found than to visit the farmers as they are working in the fields to witness the cheery countenance and listen to the words of welcome. Indeed work is so pleasant to the settler that he can hardly find time to talk with you, and we need not grumble at this, for already the mantle of the prophet is upon him and he sees with the vision of the seer the abundant harvest. Is it any wonder that he is happy, when the lean years have been dogging his footsteps with their heavy burden of debt, and now he sees freedom from anxiety in the future. So confident are the people of success that they are putting in large crops, relying upon the indications, unless something of an extraordinary nature occurrs there is a certainty of an abundant harvest. The seeding throughout the district is nearly finished and the grain is up fully two inches in some of the fields. In the Pasqua section the water was never so plentiful and the farmers are putting in large crops. In the Pioneer, Marlborough, Buffalo Lake and Carmel sections the country is in the same condition and the settlers are taking advantage of the state of the ground and the weather. School accommodation never was so complete, for in almost every available part of the country there are schools in operation. This is a strong inducement for settlers to locate in the district, indeed we do not know of a more potent factor in immigration than the statistics relating to our educational system. Allied with this is the fact, that it is a rare thing to see a sick man or woman. This no doubt has arisen through none but strong persons being willing to come to a new country, the blessedness of work, lack of needless luxuries and the healthy climate. It is a veritable fact that some of the best men we have in the district are the women. There are not to be found in any country women of greater energy and enterprize than can be seen on the prairies of the great North West. Life on the prairie begets independence, sometimes however leading the people to assume an unwise attitude toward prevailing customs and general belief No healthier life, free from sickness and anxiety can be enjoyed if properly guided and maintained than is to be spent upon the prairie. The future is bright, and fain would we linger upon the halcyon days ahead, but duty calls us to labor. Already we hear the promise of the riches and glory of the harvest when young and old will reap the fruit of all their toil amid the gay laughter of their friends.

SUICIDE IN ST. PAUL.

A NORTHWESTERN MAN SENDS A BULLET INTO HIS BRAIN.

His Wife Would Have Nothing to Do With Him and He Kills Himself—Formerly a Resident of Moose Jaw.

A case of deliberate suicide occurred in St. Paul, on Saturday, at the Tremont house, at the corner of Eighth and Robert streets. A week ago a man about forty years of age, came to the hotel and registered as John Harvey, of Bruceville, Ontario. He was of a very retiring disposition, and seemed to be brooding over some trouble. In short conversation with Mr. Gieske, the proprietor of the hotel, he stated that he left Canada owing to trouble with his wife. What was the cause of the trouble he would not state. Friday night he retired to his room, and Saturday, not being seen around the house, the proprietor became alarmed. The door of his room was locked, and when broken open Harvey was found in the bed dead, he having shot himself through the head with a shotgun. On the bureau were found letters. One was directed to Gieske & Schuler, proprietors of the Tremont. It read as follows:

I am sorry to have committed such a crime in your house. But I could not do it at the house of my father, Joseph Harvey, Brucefield, Ont., Canada. L. Beard, 638 Jackson street, knows me. All expenditures will be paid. My wife has ruined me. What is in those little pass books is to be sent to John Harvey, and the purse to W. Tasso.

Yours, JAMES HARVEY.

P. S.—I have no watch. Don't have my clothes taken off. P. S.—I called to see my wife a few minutes ago and she would not bid me good bye nor show up.

Another letter was directed to Mrs. Beard and another to "Mrs. James Harvey, 275 Eighth street." An open envelope bearing on the outside the address "Mrs. James Harvey, 275 Eighth street," was found. The letter inside read as follows:

St. Paul, May 8, 1891.—Fannie: I wish to see you to bid you good-bye, for I am never going to bother you any more after to-day. Forgive me for allowing my temper to rise, as you provoked me on the start. I just want to see you a few minutes. I will not be angry with you. Please grant me this permission. You know I started the trouble, and God knows it. Have you Cotton's receipt. If so give it to me. I remain yours, JAMES HARVEY.

On the back of the letter was the following undersigned note:

No, I will not see you. I have nothing to say.

Another open letter was addressed to the chief of police requesting that he forward certain things specified to his brother, John Harvey, at Pense, N. W. T., and other articles named to his father in Brucefield. Other letters were found in which he asserted that his wife had disgraced him, and in these and a private diary found upon him it was stated that his wife had deserted him in the company with another man. Among the notes in the diary was one dated at Moose Jaw, N. W. T., on Feb. 24, 1891, stating that on account of his troubles with his wife he had the night previously taken a bottle of laudanum to end his days, but that it scarcely made him sleep during the night.

Mrs. Harvey, wife of the suicide, was found later at a private boarding house where she was working. She burst into tears on hearing the news of the suicide, but afterwards indignantly denied the charges made by her husband. She said they were married in the Northwest last July, but she soon found out that she had married an inebriate, as he often cruelly abused her and she was compelled to leave him and came to St. Paul. He followed her, and on Friday last called at the house she was employed in and began his abuse, being finally ordered off the premises. The general opinion in St. Paul is that Harvey called to see his wife on Friday with the intention of shooting her and committing suicide. The coroner and reporters were informed that Abe Davidson, a Jackson street saloonkeeper, was well acquainted with Harvey, and the gentlemen were called upon.

BOHARM.

Lost, strayed or stolen, "Boharm Sparks," has not been heard from since elections. Anyone giving such information as will lead to his whereabouts will be suitably rewarded.... If the weather continues fine the farmers in this district will be about through seeding by the end of the week.... The happiest looking man in this district is Mr. B. Smith; its a daughter!.... A pic-nic is to be held at Pioneer Lake on May 25th. A good time may be expected.... Messrs. Hopkin and Bate have found the band of horses they lost last fall. Mr. T. Asphin who has been out looking for them, brought them in a few days ago, he found them 150 miles south west of here; they are in splendid condition after their run of six months.

Moral Suasion.

Pretty Wife (pouting)—"First Mrs. Gazzan has a dozen dresses handsomer than the only good one I've got."

Smart Husband—"A homely woman like that needs rich attire to attract attention from her face, you know."

[Pretty wife subsides.]

Don't Miss It.

A new and attractive publication containing many useful, interesting and instructive features has just been issued by T. Milburn & Co., of Toronto, under the title of the Burdock Blood Bitters Almanac for 1891. It is now in the hands of the druggists and merchants for free distribution and we would advise our readers to secure a copy before the supply is exhausted.

A grocer bought a table castor for a Chrismas present to his pastor. It cost a dollar, and he put a tag marked $14 on it. Next day the reverend gentleman brought the castor (with tag attached) back to the grocery man, and said to him:—"I am too poor in this world's goods to display so valuable a castor on my table, and if you have no objection I would like to return it and take fourteen dollars worth of groceries for my family instead." The grocer came down and retired from the gift enterprise business.

DIRECTLY AND INDIRECTLY.—Kidney complaint, dropsy and similar troubles depend directly on wrong action of the kidneys and indirectly on bad blood. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the action of the kidneys and cleanses the blood from all impurities, in this way curing kidney complaint, dropsy, etc.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.—We quote from a letter recently received from Miss Eleanor Pope, Port Haney, B. C "For sore throat, coughs, croup, bruises, etc., Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the best thing I have ever used."

A COMMON ORIGIN.—All skin diseases of whatsoever name or nature are caused by impure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters if a natural foe to impure blood, removing all foul humors from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

Prince Albert Saskatchewan : — So far the crop prospects are exceedingly favorable. Seeding commenced about the first of April and the continuance of favorable weather enabled farmers to get all their crop in before the end of that month. In the most of places the ground is well covered and the growth is healthy and vigorous. The acreage under cultivation in this district this year is about one third greater than last year.

Mr Gilmour and his son Hugh, have in a much larger crop this year than any previous year, they have over 400 acres under crop, three hundred of which is wheat and the other oats and barley. Mr. G. is one of the farmers who have never yet had what is called a failure. He has always had a very fair crop. In the year of 1889, considering the dry season and the comparative failure elsewhere, his crop was satisfactory, raising 2000 bushels of all kinds of grain. His son the same year raised 1800 bushels of wheat, and 2350 bushels of all kinds of grain. He is well satisfied with his experience in this district, and the prospects for a good crop this season, he says, are very much better than that of any previous year.

The Use Of

Harsh, drastic purgatives to relieve costiveness is a dangerous practice, and more liable to fasten the disease on the patient than to cure it. What is needed is a medicine that, in effectually opening the bowels, corrects the costive habit and establishes a natural daily action. Such an aperient is found in which, while thorough in action, strengthen as well as stimulate the bowels and excretory organs.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels became regular and natural in their movements. I am now in excellent health."—Wm. H. DeMasters, Prescott, Ont.

"When I feel the need of a cathartic, I take Ayer's Pills, and find them to be more than any other pill I ever took."—Mrs. B. C. Grubb, Barnesville, Va.

"For years I have been subject to constipation and nervous headaches, caused by derangement of the liver. After taking various remedies, I have become convinced that Ayer's Pills are the best. They have never failed to relieve my billious attacks in a short time; and I can sure my system retains its cure longer after the use of these Pills, than has been the case with any other medicine I have tried."—H. S. Sledge, Weimar, Texas.

THE NEW PEOPLE OF THE NEW WORLD.

THE FAITH OF THE ENGLISH SPEAKING FOLK.

There is an excellent article, full of suggestive matter, in the Nineteenth Century, entitled "The New World," by Mr J. W. Cross He points out that the formula that expresses the full significance of the new-world development may be the expansion of the great humanitarian movement, the central idea of which is industrialism as opposed to militarism. The new world of the United States of Australasia is founding itself on the evolution of a social faith in which industrialism vital tenet and a part of its effective religion. India, Mr. Cross thinks, has always been an effectual bar to the true union of a Greater Britain, and Equatorial Africa will prove a second bar. The extension of the British Empire alarms the mass of voters in Canada and Australia. They are dominated by three main ideas: the sovereignty of their own people, the importance of their own industrial developement, and the determination not to meddle with the affairs of other people. To the mass of the working folk Mr. Cross reminds us that the New World is the ideal world, and in these days, when the voice of the majority is so widely recognized as the voice of God, we need not be surprised—although it may be a rude awakening—to find that Canada and the United States of Australasia will presently follow in the way that the United States of America have led because they imagine it to be the way of peace—the way that seems best to secure to them the undisturbed enjoyment of their industries, the precious possession of their individuality and natural principle of their growth. And just as their cannot be true patriotism in the United States, in Canada, or in Australia without perpetual loyal recognition of the root from which they have all sprung—from which they have derived their language and their laws, their literature and their religion—so there cannot be true patriotism in England without proper consideration for the best interests of all the offspring; and in whatever way they see fit to work out their own future (by seperation or otherwise) we shall be better occupied in strengthening our alliances and our fellowship with the whole 75,000,000 of them, in unifying the sentiment of all the English-speaking peoples, rather than in attempting a partial British Imperial Federation which, with its heterogeneous elements, can never really be welded into a homogeneous structure, because it does not represent any natural principle of growth.

BILL NYE.

I must say, on the start, that my range of prose fiction has not been very wide, I have read very little fiction as a matter of duty, or because others had read it. Fiction which is not entertaining, and necessary to my existence. Fiction which is but the capsule containing a poorly concealed political or religious wad of blue mass will not work its way into my intellecual anatomy, if I know it, unless I know that blue mass is the only thing that will save my life.

At the risk of offending Mr. Howells, who is one of the most levelheaded men in this country, I must here state, over my brief and unturtored signature, that I get more juice out of the works of Mr. Charles Dickens than anybody else. Instead of reading new books, as I suppose I ought, I go back over "David Copperfield" and the journey of Little Nell when I presume I should read "Robert Elsmere." But it don't hurt m to rinse off my soul, now and then, with a few tears such as Mr. Dickens colls forth, even out of the eyes of BILL NYE.

A Tough Yarn.

"Say," said a man to the butcher of whom he purchased his daily supply of meat, "that last piece of steak I bought of you must have been from a steer old enough to vote."

"Was it tough ?" inquired the man of meat.

"Tough ! Well I should say it was. I could hardly cut it."

"Oh, is that all ? Well, you ought to have heard another man kicking a day or two ago. He bought a piece that he said was so tough he couldn' get his fork in the gravy."

BLACK GEORGE is a glossy jet black, stands 16¼ hands high, weighs 1500 pounds, is five years old. He is a fast walker and first-class traveller.

A foal from this horse in the heavy draught class took third prize and was the largest colt on the ground at the Moose Jaw Exhibition in 1890, and one in the general purpose class took first prize, and one in carriage class took first prize also.

London, Feb. 18th, 1889.

This is to certify that George a black stallion was bred by Mr. Porter of Colborne, as sired by Sir Warwickshire Hero, who was imported from England by Mr. A. Allin of Goderich, Ont. His dam was a fine dark bay mare and she was sired by imported Captain Watt. I sold a full brother of this stallion to Mr. Taylor of Indiana, U. S. A., for $800 and a full brother to a [illegible] diana, for $1100.

The above is correct according to the best of my knowledge and belief.
